

THE COMPETING LINE

Will Increase Its Carrying Capacity.

WAR AGAINST THE S. P. COMPANY

Several Trains to Be Chartered by San Francisco Whole-Sale Dealers.

SAN FRANCISCO, December 5.—Freighters Campbell's twelve-mule team left today for Fresno with ten tons of sugar consigned by Wellman, Peck & Co. to their Fresno branch. The team will go by boat to Stockton and thence overland to Fresno.

Wellman, Peck & Company have declared war against the Southern Pacific Company. The manager of the firm said today: "This is really the beginning of actual competition with the Southern Pacific. This firm will send out as many mule teams as we can find use for. We intend to send out our goods by wagon to every point we can possibly reach in that manner. We can use two such teams every week to carry sugar alone to Fresno. In addition we can supply our customers with canned goods and groceries in general. Campbell expects to reach Fresno next Tuesday, and will at once commence outfitting the teams we require."

CHANGES SUSTAINED.

Campbell Is Expelled From the Students' Association.

BERKELEY, December 5.—At a meeting of the Associated Students of the University of California this afternoon Claude C. Campbell, the subject of the hazing committee, was expelled from the association. He was convicted upon charges of securing secret information concerning the football team and giving it to Stanford players and wearing colors of the latter team at the match on Thanksgiving day.

Campbell entered the University of California as a special student in mechanics, and his name is still on the college roll. The faculty will act upon his case tomorrow. Campbell today announced his intention of placing photographs of himself on sale. He is waiting the arrival of his father, a Methodist clergyman from Los Angeles, when he threatens to arrest students concerned in the hazing. He went to San Francisco this afternoon, and was warned never to return to Berkeley.

TESTIMONY ALL IN.

The Hatch Case Will Go to the Jury Tomorrow.

WOODLAND, December 5.—At no time during the trial of Hatch has the court been so crowded as last night and today. Attorneys Cook and Head made the closing address for the prosecution, reminding the jury of its sworn duty, and pointed out certain inconsistencies in the testimony of the defense.

Attorney Gadsden commenced the argument for the defense, and made an earnest appeal to the jury to do their duty, and was followed by General Hart, whose scolding remarks about the railroad company run counter to the impression the prosecution has made upon the jury. He said that the prosecution was not being carried on by the people, but by the railroad, and at 4 o'clock was still speaking, when the court ordered a recess until 4 o'clock.

When General Hart continued his address, it is likely that the case will not go to the jury until tomorrow afternoon.

PERSISTENT INDUSTRIALS.

"General" Kelly Organizing Another Army to Go to Washington.

SACRAMENTO, December 5.—"General" Charles Kelly, who led a band of the industrialists from California to Washington last spring, is organizing another army. He has written a letter to the mayor of Sacramento, assuring him that his army does not intend to move upon the state capital. "The only place we intend to move upon," says the General, "will be Grover's villa, Washington, and by all that is good and holy, we intend to camp in Washington again; to keep on camping and marching until we have a bill passed by congress to provide work for unemployed American citizens."

Election Contest.

SANTA ROSA, December 5.—Mrs. Fannie Martin, who was the independent candidate for superintendent of schools at the last election, will contest the election of E. W. Davis, the Republican candidate for the same office, on the ground of fraud. Davis had 270 more votes than Mrs. Martin.

A Report Disbelieved.

LONDON, December 5.—The opinion in official circles here is that there is no truth in the report, called from Shanghai, that a ten days' armistice has been arranged between China and Japan. It is added that all indications point to the contrary.

Tired of Life.

MONROVIA, December 5.—It is reported here that Andrew Lano, a wealthy rancher living near Knight's Ferry, committed suicide last night. He stood before a looking glass and blew his brains out with a revolver. Lano was a bachelor 55 years of age.

Mine Disaster.

WASH ORR, Mo., December 5.—There was a crash at the Center Creek Company's mines this evening, burying and causing the death of three miners who had just gone to work 200 feet below the surface.

Citizens to Fight Indians.

SALT LAKE, December 5.—The governor has decided to furnish arms to citizens to resist the invading Ute Indians from Colorado. As a last resort the militia will be called out.

Railroad Fares Increased.

CHICAGO, December 5.—The transcontinental lines decided today that, commencing March 1st, round trip rates to the Pacific Coast will be raised $10, except by the Shasta route, which was raised $7.50.

Will Climb the Mountain.

SEATTLE, December 5.—For the purpose of ascertaining the extent of recent changes on Mt. Rainier the Post-Intelligencer has fitted out an expedition to climb the mountain.

CONGRESSIONAL.

HOUSE.

WASHINGTON, December 5.—In the house there is a special order for the consideration of the railroad pooling bill each day until disposed of or adopted. The object of the bill is to secure better enforcement of the interstate commerce law.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, December 5.—In the senate Vest, who was formerly opposed to closure, announced his conversion and endeavored to secure a change in the rules so as to expedite business. Lodge's resolution calling for information as to torturing the Japanese students who were under American protection in China caused sharp debate. Peffer made the first formal speech of the session, criticizing from a Populist point, the recent issue of bonds and giving his views on finance. His resolution asking the judiciary committee to inquire into the action of the secretary of the treasury in issuing bonds was adopted.

FRIGHTENED HORSES

Cause a General Stampede on an Oakland Ferry Boat.

SAN FRANCISCO, December 5.—A. L. Gregg of Oakland, late Populist candidate for lieutenant governor, was the cause of a wild stampede on an Oakland ferry boat this afternoon. Gregg took three young horses aboard the steamer, where they became unmanageable and charged into the crowd of passengers on the lower deck. Gregg was so badly injured he had to be taken to the receiving hospital. A deckhand and fireman who tried to control the horses received serious injuries, and one woman was kicked and badly hurt. The horses were to be shipped to Stockton.

COLGAN'S REPORT.

Total Amount of Funds in the Treasury, $1,377,664.

SACRAMENTO, December 5.—The monthly report of State Controller Colgan shows the general fund to contain $284,633, against which there are outstanding debts and warrants amounting to $108,742, leaving $175,891 in the fund. The total amount in the several funds is $1,377,664, but none of the counties have as yet intimated with the state for their part installment of this year's taxes. The lowest fund the treasury is the San Diego harbor fund, which has less than $5.

NEW OFFICES.

The Southern Pacific Headquarters to Be Moved.

SAN FRANCISCO, December 5.—The Southern Pacific company expects to be established in its new offices at the corner of Montgomery and Market streets by the end of next week. The purchasing, maintenance of way and law departments have already moved into the new building. It is announced that the new rule, prohibiting the yielding of down town free lunch saloons by employees, will be rigidly enforced.

DAMAGES AWARDED.

The Southern Pacific Ordered to Pay Zion $700.

OAKLAND, Nev., December 5.—In the case of Zion vs. the Southern Pacific company for $700, the jury awarded the plaintiff $700 and the costs of appeal. Zion was ejected from one of the company's trains on the ground that he was riding on a scalper's ticket, but the jury found in his favor, hence the suit.

San Francisco Races.

SAN FRANCISCO, December 5.—Six furlongs—Ranjo, Silver State, Arno, Time, 1:10. Five and a half furlongs—San Lucas, Patriot, Headflower, Time, 1:14. Six furlongs—Sigo, Bravecto, Tartan, Time, 1:20. Sigo was fifty to one in the betting. Mile and a half—April, Dick O'Malley, Nasasino, Time, 3:05 1/2. Six furlongs—Realization, Oluse, San Luis Rey, Time, 1:10.

Merchant Robbed.

SAN FRANCISCO, December 5.—Two men armed with pistols robbed Michael Roth late Tuesday night in his grocery store in the Mission. The robbery was one of the most daring descriptions and had not Roth complied with the demands of the men he would have undoubtedly been killed. After emptying his money drawer the man blindfolded the proprietor, led him by a circuitous route to an unfrequented locality and released him. They then disappeared.

No Trace of Joyce's Body.

SACRAMENTO, December 5.—Efforts to find the body of Charles Edward Joyce, who last night jumped from the Yolo bridge into the river with a companion named Maxwell, and who was drowned, have proved fruitless. Some have advanced the theory that he swam or walked ashore in the darkness and is in hiding, but there is no doubt he was drowned.

Arrested for Manslaughter.

OAKLAND, December 5.—The conductor and gripman of the cable car which collided with a train last night, were today arrested and charged with manslaughter for causing the death of Miss Conates. The men were later released on their own recognizance.

The Markets.

SAN FRANCISCO, December 5.—Wheat—Strong; May, $1.05 1/4. Barley—Firm; December, $80; May, 92 1/2 c. Bran—$1.25. Bran—$1.30 per ton.

Savage Guilty.

THE DALES, Or., December 5.—Otis Savage, the young man who robbed the express office here of $14,000, was today found guilty.

Improving the Upper San Joaquin.

From the New York Times. The San Joaquin river between Grayson and Hills Ferry, is being cleared of snags and other impediments that have long made navigation on the San Joaquin difficult. The work is in charge of United States Engineer Gore, who has six men and two boats employed. The work has been going on for the past three weeks and many of the snags have been removed by means of blasting. It is expected that the work of clearing the river of snags between Hills Ferry and Grayson will be completed in about a month, provided the weather holds good. The distance from Grayson to Hills Ferry by boat is fifty-two miles, and by land twenty-one miles.

MURDERER HILLMAN

Captured After Many Years Search.

MRS. HILLMAN GETS JUDGMENT

For $50,000 Life Insurance Money.

A Reward of $15,000 Offered.

TUCSON, A. T., December 5.—John W. Hillman, whom the authorities have been hunting for years, has been arrested at Salivation Army camp in the Huachuca mountains.

In 1879 Hillman and two companions went into the Buffalo mountains of Texas to hunt. One man resembled Hillman closely and this man never returned. Hillman carried $80,000 on his life, and while in the mountains murdered the man who so closely resembled him and then returned to the settlement. He took the name of the man whom he had murdered and said that Hillman had been accidentally shot dead and buried in the mountains.

In due time Mrs. Hillman made claim to the life insurance company in which her husband had been insured for $50,000. The insurance people became suspicious and began an investigation. The remains of the man whom Hillman had put out of the way were exhumed, and the discovery was made that they were not the remains of Hillman.

Mrs. Hillman instituted legal proceedings in the courts of Tucson, Kansas, to recover the amount of insurance. The case was carried from one court to another until finally she secured judgment for the principal, interest and attorney's fees in the supreme court of the United States.

According to the order of the court judgment must be satisfied at the end of this year. During all this time the insurance companies have kept detectives on the trail of Hillman, who disappeared shortly after his wife made claim for the insurance. He was followed to Australia and other foreign countries and a reward of $15,000 was offered for his apprehension, dead or alive.

On the fourth of last month Under Sheriff Gemmill arrived in this territory from Colorado and interested Finley in the case. Gemmill having learned that Hillman was in Sonora, he and Finley, the murderer of the late Magdalena, then followed him to Altar, Sonora, thence to Fresco, Ariz. Hillman, Old Glory camp, and then to Salivation Army camp in Huachuca, where he was arrested.

Hillman denied that he was the right party when told by the officers where they wanted him. He was then taken to Tombstone, where he is held pending the arrival of extradition papers from the governor of Kansas.

A STAY LAW.

A Correspondent Points Out Why He Wants One.

BORON REPUBLICAN.—Your suggestion the other day that a meeting of business men and taxpayers should be called to take practical steps to secure needed legislation, is a very good initiative along the line of practical reform. And it is to be hoped that the citizens of all parties will join the call, and that members of all parties will attend such a meeting, and discuss matters of legislation, not in a partisan, but in a patriotic spirit, to promote the welfare of all classes of our people.

In these hard times so many reforms are needed in our body politic to meet the wants of our people that among the many it is hard to decide which are the first to be acted upon. However, in addition to the subjects mentioned in your editorial last Sunday, the question, how to enable our people to maintain themselves in their homes already established, and also how to best encourage the building up of additional homes throughout the state, appears to me to be one of the most pressing of all questions.

The one fact which is the leading difference between civilization and barbarism, must be admitted by all to be that in highly civilized communities the people live in happy homes and are progressive and patriotic, and enjoy a large measure of liberty, while in a state of barbarism or semi-barbarism, the people dwell in caves, hovels, huts, and miserable homes, or they are homeless, destitute of patriotism and the higher sentiments of civilization.

Therefore, to maintain and foster civilization, patriotism, liberty, progress and happiness, we must legislate to maintain and protect the homes already established, and also how to best encourage the building up of additional homes throughout the state, appears to me to be one of the most pressing of all questions.

The one fact which is the leading difference between civilization and barbarism, must be admitted by all to be that in highly civilized communities the people live in happy homes and are progressive and patriotic, and enjoy a large measure of liberty, while in a state of barbarism or semi-barbarism, the people dwell in caves, hovels, huts, and miserable homes, or they are homeless, destitute of patriotism and the higher sentiments of civilization.

Therefore, to maintain and foster civilization, patriotism, liberty, progress and happiness, we must legislate to maintain and protect the homes already established, and also how to best encourage the building up of additional homes throughout the state, appears to me to be one of the most pressing of all questions.

The one fact which is the leading difference between civilization and barbarism, must be admitted by all to be that in highly civilized communities the people live in happy homes and are progressive and patriotic, and enjoy a large measure of liberty, while in a state of barbarism or semi-barbarism, the people dwell in caves, hovels, huts, and miserable homes, or they are homeless, destitute of patriotism and the higher sentiments of civilization.

Therefore, to maintain and foster civilization, patriotism, liberty, progress and happiness, we must legislate to maintain and protect the homes already established, and also how to best encourage the building up of additional homes throughout the state, appears to me to be one of the most pressing of all questions.

The one fact which is the leading difference between civilization and barbarism, must be admitted by all to be that in highly civilized communities the people live in happy homes and are progressive and patriotic, and enjoy a large measure of liberty, while in a state of barbarism or semi-barbarism, the people dwell in caves, hovels, huts, and miserable homes, or they are homeless, destitute of patriotism and the higher sentiments of civilization.

Therefore, to maintain and foster civilization, patriotism, liberty, progress and happiness, we must legislate to maintain and protect the homes already established, and also how to best encourage the building up of additional homes throughout the state, appears to me to be one of the most pressing of all questions.

The one fact which is the leading difference between civilization and barbarism, must be admitted by all to be that in highly civilized communities the people live in happy homes and are progressive and patriotic, and enjoy a large measure of liberty, while in a state of barbarism or semi-barbarism, the people dwell in caves, hovels, huts, and miserable homes, or they are homeless, destitute of patriotism and the higher sentiments of civilization.

Therefore, to maintain and foster civilization, patriotism, liberty, progress and happiness, we must legislate to maintain and protect the homes already established, and also how to best encourage the building up of additional homes throughout the state, appears to me to be one of the most pressing of all questions.

The one fact which is the leading difference between civilization and barbarism, must be admitted by all to be that in highly civilized communities the people live in happy homes and are progressive and patriotic, and enjoy a large measure of liberty, while in a state of barbarism or semi-barbarism, the people dwell in caves, hovels, huts, and miserable homes, or they are homeless, destitute of patriotism and the higher sentiments of civilization.

Therefore, to maintain and foster civilization, patriotism, liberty, progress and happiness, we must legislate to maintain and protect the homes already established, and also how to best encourage the building up of additional homes throughout the state, appears to me to be one of the most pressing of all questions.

The one fact which is the leading difference between civilization and barbarism, must be admitted by all to be that in highly civilized communities the people live in happy homes and are progressive and patriotic, and enjoy a large measure of liberty, while in a state of barbarism or semi-barbarism, the people dwell in caves, hovels, huts, and miserable homes, or they are homeless, destitute of patriotism and the higher sentiments of civilization.

Therefore, to maintain and foster civilization, patriotism, liberty, progress and happiness, we must legislate to maintain and protect the homes already established, and also how to best encourage the building up of additional homes throughout the state, appears to me to be one of the most pressing of all questions.

The one fact which is the leading difference between civilization and barbarism, must be admitted by all to be that in highly civilized communities the people live in happy homes and are progressive and patriotic, and enjoy a large measure of liberty, while in a state of barbarism or semi-barbarism, the people dwell in caves, hovels, huts, and miserable homes, or they are homeless, destitute of patriotism and the higher sentiments of civilization.

Therefore, to maintain and foster civilization, patriotism, liberty, progress and happiness, we must legislate to maintain and protect the homes already established, and also how to best encourage the building up of additional homes throughout the state, appears to me to be one of the most pressing of all questions.

The one fact which is the leading difference between civilization and barbarism, must be admitted by all to be that in highly civilized communities the people live in happy homes and are progressive and patriotic, and enjoy a large measure of liberty, while in a state of barbarism or semi-barbarism, the people dwell in caves, hovels, huts, and miserable homes, or they are homeless, destitute of patriotism and the higher sentiments of civilization.

Therefore, to maintain and foster civilization, patriotism, liberty, progress and happiness, we must legislate to maintain and protect the homes already established, and also how to best encourage the building up of additional homes throughout the state, appears to me to be one of the most pressing of all questions.

The one fact which is the leading difference between civilization and barbarism, must be admitted by all to be that in highly civilized communities the people live in happy homes and are progressive and patriotic, and enjoy a large measure of liberty, while in a state of barbarism or semi-barbarism, the people dwell in caves, hovels, huts, and miserable homes, or they are homeless, destitute of patriotism and the higher sentiments of civilization.

Therefore, to maintain and foster civilization, patriotism, liberty, progress and happiness, we must legislate to maintain and protect the homes already established, and also how to best encourage the building up of additional homes throughout the state, appears to me to be one of the most pressing of all questions.

The one fact which is the leading difference between civilization and barbarism, must be admitted by all to be that in highly civilized communities the people live in happy homes and are progressive and patriotic, and enjoy a large measure of liberty, while in a state of barbarism or semi-barbarism, the people dwell in caves, hovels, huts, and miserable homes, or they are homeless, destitute of patriotism and the higher sentiments of civilization.

Therefore, to maintain and foster civilization, patriotism, liberty, progress and happiness, we must legislate to maintain and protect the homes already established, and also how to best encourage the building up of additional homes throughout the state, appears to me to be one of the most pressing of all questions.

The one fact which is the leading difference between civilization and barbarism, must be admitted by all to be that in highly civilized communities the people live in happy homes and are progressive and patriotic, and enjoy a large measure of liberty, while in a state of barbarism or semi-barbarism, the people dwell in caves, hovels, huts, and miserable homes, or they are homeless, destitute of patriotism and the higher sentiments of civilization.

Therefore, to maintain and foster civilization, patriotism, liberty, progress and happiness, we must legislate to maintain and protect the homes already established, and also how to best encourage the building up of additional homes throughout the state, appears to me to be one of the most pressing of all questions.

DEVELOPE THE COUNTRY.

The Vast Resources and Possibilities of Fresno.

EDITOR REPUBLICAN.—It is with a feeling of relief that the average citizen regards the subsidence of the turmoil and excitement that accompanies the biennial elections, when men once more have time and inclination to think of and consider more profitable and rational themes.

Politics have a tendency to disrupt and antagonize, and hence have a tendency to destroy that necessary spirit of local pride, that unanimity of opinion, that unity of purpose which alone make it possible for communities such as this to grow and expand, to prosper and draw the best of earth unto them.

I have many times heard the statement made by eastern people that the people of California do not hold together, have no unity of purpose, are prone to pull apart. Such is indeed the case and naturally so, because there are people here from every part of the known world, and each comes here with the one purpose of bettering his lot, and each one also comes with notions, ideas, habits of thought moulded by his own environment at his former home, and each one has a different method of doing things.

Our communities may be compared with the masses of rock which have been cemented and metamorphosed, but while the newer ones are mere conglomerations of disconnected material, and hence their stability only possible with bodies presenting a united and solid front. The mass must be held together by the cementing bond of common interest, each one striving to let his own aqueducts as well as those of his neighbor, and discharging his duty to the community for all time the idea that the method of doing things in our old home is the only right method; adopt a new way and press on united.

Our communities may be compared with the masses of rock which have been cemented and metamorphosed, but while the newer ones are mere conglomerations of disconnected material, and hence their stability only possible with bodies presenting a united and solid front. The mass must be held together by the cementing bond of common interest, each one striving to let his own aqueducts as well as those of his neighbor, and discharging his duty to the community for all time the idea that the method of doing things in our old home is the only right method; adopt a new way and press on united.

Our communities may be compared with the masses of rock which have been cemented and metamorphosed, but while the newer ones are mere conglomerations of disconnected material, and hence their stability only possible with bodies presenting a united and solid front. The mass must be held together by the cementing bond of common interest, each one striving to let his own aqueducts as well as those of his neighbor, and discharging his duty to the community for all time the idea that the method of doing things in our old home is the only right method; adopt a new way and press on united.

Our communities may be compared with the masses of rock which have been cemented and metamorphosed, but while the newer ones are mere conglomerations of disconnected material, and hence their stability only possible with bodies presenting a united and solid front. The mass must be held together by the cementing bond of common interest, each one striving to let his own aqueducts as well as those of his neighbor, and discharging his duty to the community for all time the idea that the method of doing things in our old home is the only right method; adopt a new way and press on united.

Our communities may be compared with the masses of rock which have been cemented and metamorphosed, but while the newer ones are mere conglomerations of disconnected material, and hence their stability only possible with bodies presenting a united and solid front. The mass must be held together by the cementing bond of common interest, each one striving to let his own aqueducts as well as those of his neighbor, and discharging his duty to the community for all time the idea that the method of doing things in our old home is the only right method; adopt a new way and press on united.

Our communities may be compared with the masses of rock which have been cemented and metamorphosed, but while the newer ones are mere conglomerations of disconnected material, and hence their stability only possible with bodies presenting a united and solid front. The mass must be held together by the cementing bond of common interest, each one striving to let his own aqueducts as well as those of his neighbor, and discharging his duty to the community for all time the idea that the method of doing things in our old home is the only right method; adopt a new way and press on united.

Our communities may be compared with the masses of rock which have been cemented and metamorphosed, but while the newer ones are mere conglomerations of disconnected material, and hence their stability only possible with bodies presenting a united and solid front. The mass must be held together by the cementing bond of common interest, each one striving to let his own aqueducts as well as those of his neighbor, and discharging his duty to the community for all time the idea that the method of doing things in our old home is the only right method; adopt a new way and press on united.

Our communities may be compared with the masses of rock which have been cemented and metamorphosed, but while the newer ones are mere conglomerations of disconnected material, and hence their stability only possible with bodies presenting a united and solid front. The mass must be held together by the cementing bond of common interest, each one striving to let his own aqueducts as well as those of his neighbor, and discharging his duty to the community for all time the idea that the method of doing things in our old home is the only right method; adopt a new way and press on united.

Our communities may be compared with the masses of rock which have been cemented and metamorphosed, but while the newer ones are mere conglomerations of disconnected material, and hence their stability only possible with bodies presenting a united and solid front. The mass must be held together by the cementing bond of common interest, each one striving to let his own aqueducts as well as those of his neighbor, and discharging his duty to the community for all time the idea that the method of doing things in our old home is the only right method; adopt a new way and press on united.

Our communities may be compared with the masses of rock which have been cemented and metamorphosed, but while the newer ones are mere conglomerations of disconnected material, and hence their stability only possible with bodies presenting a united and solid front. The mass must be held together by the cementing bond of common interest, each one striving to let his own aqueducts as well as those of his neighbor, and discharging his duty to the community for all time the idea that the method of doing things in our old home is the only right method; adopt a new way and press on united.

Our communities may be compared with the masses of rock which have been cemented and metamorphosed, but while the newer ones are mere conglomerations of disconnected material, and hence their stability only possible with bodies presenting a united and solid front. The mass must be held together by the cementing bond of common interest, each one striving to let his own aqueducts as well as those of his neighbor, and discharging his duty to the community for all time the idea that the method of doing things in our old home is the only right method; adopt a new way and press on united.

Our communities may be compared with the masses of rock which have been cemented and metamorphosed, but while the newer ones are mere conglomerations of disconnected material, and hence their stability only possible with bodies presenting a united and solid front. The mass must be held together by the cementing bond of common interest, each one striving to let his own aqueducts as well as those of his neighbor, and discharging his duty to the community for all time the idea that the method of doing things in our old home is the only right method; adopt a new way and press on united.

Our communities may be compared with the masses of rock which have been cemented and metamorphosed, but while the newer ones are mere conglomerations of disconnected material, and hence their stability only possible with bodies presenting a united and solid front. The mass must be held together by the cementing bond of common interest, each one striving to let his own aqueducts as well as those of his neighbor, and discharging his duty to the community for all time the idea that the method of doing things in our old home is the only right method; adopt a new way and press on united.

Our communities may be compared with the masses of rock which have been cemented and metamorphosed, but while the newer ones are mere conglomerations of disconnected material, and hence their stability only possible with bodies presenting a united and solid front. The mass must be held together by the cementing bond of common interest, each one striving to let his own aqueducts as well as those of his neighbor, and discharging his duty to the community for all time the idea that the method of doing things in our old home is the only right method; adopt a new way and press on united.

Our communities may be compared with the masses of rock which have been cemented and metamorphosed, but while the newer ones are mere conglomerations of disconnected material, and hence their stability only possible with bodies presenting a united and solid front. The mass must be held together by the cementing bond of common interest, each one striving to let his own aqueducts as well as those of his neighbor, and discharging his duty to the community for all time the idea that the method of doing things in our old home is the only right method; adopt a new way and press on united.

Our communities may be compared with the masses of rock which have been cemented and metamorphosed, but while the newer ones are mere conglomerations of disconnected material, and hence their stability only possible with bodies presenting a united and solid front. The mass must be held together by the cementing bond of common interest, each one striving to let his own aqueducts as well as those of his neighbor, and discharging his duty to the community for all time the idea that the method of doing things in our old home is the only right method; adopt a new way and press on united.

Our communities may be compared with the masses of rock which have been cemented and metamorphosed, but while the newer ones are mere conglomerations of disconnected material, and hence their stability only possible with bodies presenting a united and solid front. The mass must be held together by the cementing bond of common interest, each one striving to let his own aqueducts as well as those of his neighbor, and discharging his duty to the community for all time the idea that the method of doing things in our old home is the only right method; adopt a new way and press on united.

Our communities may be compared with the masses of rock which have been cemented and metamorphosed, but while the newer ones are mere conglomerations of disconnected material, and hence their stability only possible with bodies presenting a united and solid front. The mass must be held together by the cementing bond of common interest, each one striving to let his own aqueducts as well as those of his neighbor, and discharging his duty to the community for all time the idea that the method of doing things in our old home is the only right method; adopt a new way and press on united.

Our communities may be compared with the masses of rock which have been cemented and metamorphosed, but while the newer ones are mere conglomerations of disconnected material, and hence their stability only possible with bodies presenting a united and solid front. The mass must be held together by the cementing bond of common interest, each one striving to let his own aqueducts as well as those of his neighbor, and discharging his duty to the community for all time the idea that the method of doing things in our old home is the only right method; adopt a new way and press on united.

Our communities may be compared with the masses of rock which have been cemented and metamorphosed, but while the newer ones are mere conglomerations of disconnected material, and hence their stability only possible with bodies presenting a united and solid front. The mass must be held together by the cementing bond of common interest, each one striving to let his own aqueducts as well as those of his neighbor, and discharging his duty to the community for all time the idea that the method of doing things in our old home is the only right method; adopt a new way and press on united.

Our communities may be compared with the masses of rock which have been cemented and metamorphosed, but while the newer ones are mere conglomerations of disconnected material, and hence their stability only possible with bodies presenting a united and solid front. The mass must be held together by the cementing bond of common interest, each one striving to let his own aqueducts as well as those of his neighbor, and discharging his duty to the community for all time the idea that the method of doing things in our old home is the only right method; adopt a new way and press on united.

Our communities may be compared with the masses of rock which have been cemented and metamorphosed, but while the newer ones are mere conglomerations of disconnected material, and hence their stability only possible with bodies presenting a united and solid front. The mass must be held together by the cementing bond of common interest, each one striving to let his own aqueducts as well as those of his neighbor, and discharging his duty to the community for all time the idea that the method of doing things in our old home is the only right method; adopt a new way and press on united.

Our communities may be compared with the masses of rock which have been cemented and metamorphosed, but while the newer ones are mere conglomerations of disconnected material, and hence their stability only possible with bodies presenting a united and solid front. The mass must be held together by the cementing bond of common interest, each one striving to let his own aqueducts as well as those of his neighbor, and discharging his duty to the community for all time the idea that the method of doing things in our old home is the only right method; adopt a new way and press on united.

Our communities may be compared with the masses of rock which have been cemented and metamorphosed, but while the newer ones are mere conglomerations of disconnected material, and hence their stability only possible with bodies presenting a united and solid front. The mass must be held together by the cementing bond of common interest,

